The Hub, Miriam Lord Primary School

Children at Miriam Lord Primary School, are now broadcasting live from their brand new, state of the art, multi media recording studio and radio station. The radio station and green screen facilities, are believed to be the first of its kind in a Bradford primary school and was funded by the school.

Demco had previously worked with the school on their continuous improvement area and the library and this was an opportunity to scope their design and furnishings even wider to create a bespoke, new multi-media space based on the sketch up ideas of the deputy head teacher.

Demco worked with the school team on the four areas of The Hub; including the aptly named Silver Street green screen studios, a radio station, a Wii area and animation zone which includes professional audio, studio, software and transmission green screen film & TV space with in-house camera equipment and lights.

The Hub is in the middle of the school and children from all years will have the opportunity to use the equipment and be part of their very own LIVE broadcasts. The area has captured the interest of schools both locally and nationally and the school recently hosted a Building Learning Power day where the areas created a lot of attention. Bryan Harrison, Headteacher, said: "It has been inspirational working with and everyone at Demco Interiors. Their vision and creativity has made a significant impact on our learning environment and the ethos of the school. Miriam Lord is quickly becoming viewed as an innovative environment for learning, something I wouldn't have thought possible a few years ago. Looking forward to working together in the future."

Everything is LIVE and ON AIR at Miriam Lord Primary School.
